

Career Decisions: Things to Consider

When determining how to make better career decisions it's helpful to have a list of questions to get you thinking deeper. Consider taking time to write your answers to each of the following. As you get further down the list, you'll be closer to clarity about your imminent career choice.

How do my current personal circumstances affect this career decision?

How do I feel about having to make this decision?

How will this decision affect me?

How will this decision affect those around me?

What does my gut tell me about this decision?

If other people are offering their opinion on my decision, are they being biased?

Will this push me closer to my end goal or further away?

Why am I being faced with this decision in the first place?

Is this decision as big as I'm making it out to be? Why?

Am I letting fear get in my way of making the right decision for my career?

Depending on the decision I make, what will life look like in:
One year? Five years? Ten years?

Have I weighed the pros and cons of each decision and evaluated the results?

Pros	Cons

My decision:

Now you've completed this worksheet, you're well on your way to making better career choices that will benefit you throughout your career.

If you ever need more guidance, feel free to return to this sheet and go through the process again, or head to www.careeraddict.com for further information.

Good luck!